To Learn To Love To Serve

STATEMENT OF POLICY

St. Peter Claver High School is a Jesuit Secondary School offering quality education. It is a Catholic school open to both boys and girls of all religious persuasions.

Under the guidance of the school staff, students develop intellectually, spiritually, emotionally, and physically. Much of this development takes place in the classroom, the laboratory, the library, and the study hall. But it also occurs on the playing field, on the stage, in the community within the school and outside, especially in the neighborhood of the school. The molding of each student's character and personality is no less important than his/her learning.

Always in whatever students do, they are encouraged to strive for excellence. The goal held out to all is their full personal development as individuals and as members of society. Constantly, students are invited to participate, to be active, to interact, and to contribute in a spirit of service within their school community and in the large community outside the school. We, at St. Peter Claver, inculcate the desire to work for the development of other people and of the nation. In other words, we prepare each student to become a PERSON FOR OTHERS through the school motto of Learning, Loving and Serving.

Personal integrity, self-discipline, respect and tolerance for differences (personal, cultural, religious), love of others, a sense of responsibility for the people and the resources of the world, a desire to reach out in practical way to those in greater need: all these are values proposed to the students.

Though a Catholic school; St. Peter Claver admits people of every religion, respects all religions and gives opportunity to everyone to exercise their religious rights without compromising the school rules and regulations. Being a Catholic school, the Catholic identity of the school is to be safeguarded. Thus, it is not only Catholics who attend Catholic liturgy in the School Chapel, but all students on specified occasions.

The school staff strives to complement the role of parents, family, and community in leading the youth in their care to a greater fidelity to God, to a sense of justice for all, and to a love of neighbour that will form responsible leaders for the future. Parents' meetings organized by PTA or by the school provide a forum for joint effort to form our students. Repetitive absence of parents from such meetings will be interpreted as lack of cooperation, and thus willingness to have the child transferred to another school.

The undersigned accept this Statement of Policy and agree to cooperate with the administration and the staff of St. Peter Claver High School in carrying it out.
